

Real World Crystal Reports - Workshop

A common request for many training assignments is that many people would like to conduct a training class using their own databases. This has advantages and disadvantages. Most Crystal Training providers use the sample database that is included with Crystal Reports when it is installed. This has the advantage that the training manuals can be created uniformly and can be used for all training assignments, but of course are not specific to anyone's actual database.

As a result of this we offer a one day Crystal Workshop that is designed to follow either the two day Level I or Level II class, or the four day combined Levels I and II.

This provides the following advantages to the students:

- They will learn their actual database structure creating real reports which they can use immediately after learning the training concepts
- They will create and build real reports that are immediately useable
- The Instructor is present to guide them
- They will learn about the report planning and developing process
- They will immediately get to apply the skills that they learned in the class
